PLAYER OF THE WEEK

LEE BOLYARD, IF, BETHESDA BLUE CAPS

Lee Bolyard of the Bethesda Blue Caps, one of the newest franchises in the Clark Griffith League has been selected as the fourth Player of the Week for the 2007 Clark C. Griffith Collegiate Baseball League season. Bolyard, an infielder from Johns Hopkins University, hit .476 for the week, and collected 5 RBIs to help the Blue Caps. He hit four doubles and scored five runs this week as well. In the Blue Caps' June 26 victory against the McLean Raiders, Bolyard went 4-for-5 with an RBI and two runs scored. The rising sophomore from Burke, Va. went 3-for-4 and knocked in three runs with two doubles against the DC Grays on June 27. Bolyard led the league in on-base percentage and doubles for the week.

BACKGROUND: This spring with Johns Hopkins, Bolyard batted .342 with 8 doubles and 20 RBI in 38 games...Bolyard's baseball team advanced to the state quarterfinals as a senior at Lake Braddock High School...with Lake Braddock, he was an all-district selection for four years...he was an all-state selection as a senior

PITCHER OF THE WEEK

GABRIEL RIOS, RHP, FAIRFAX NATIONALS

Gabriel Rios of the Fairfax Nationals has been selected as the fourth Pitcher of the Week for the 2007 Clark C. Griffith Collegiate Baseball League season. Rios, a right-handed pitcher and rising junior at Urbana University, made two appearances and held opposing batters to a .217 batting average in the Nationals' way to a 5-0 record this week. The Lorian, Ohio native threw 13 innings, and struck out 12 batters. He ended the week with a 0.69 ERA and walked just four batters. Rios helped his team in a 5-1 victory against the McLean Raiders on June 22, by throwing seven innings and striking out seven. On June 28, he pitched six innings in a game against the Vienna Senators that was suspended due to poor weather. He gave up seven hits in the six innings and struck out five.

BACKGROUND: With Urbana University this spring, Rios went 0-2 with a 3.81 ERA in seven appearances...he struck out 15 and walked 14 this spring at Urbana...Rios transferred to Urbana from Glen Oaks CC where he was named to the All-State and All-Region team...Rios helped Glen Oaks CC to a Regional Runner-Up finish in 2005.

WEEKLY NOTES

- The Clark Griffith League hosted the 2007 Joe Branzell All-Star Game and Home Run Derby this year at Waters Field. The event took place on June 30. Nate Newman, a right-handed pitcher with the Vienna Senators took home the Home Run Derby title, knocking eight homers out of the park in the final round to win. Alex Gregory of the Fairfax Nationals also made it to the final round of the Home Run Derby. The Clark Griffith League All-Stars defeated the Maryland Collegiate Baseball League, 10-2.
- The Vienna Senators lead the league in batting again this week, with a team batting average of .329, while the Fairfax Nationals lead the league in pitching with a team ERA of 1.88. The Senators and the Nationals will have to complete a game that was suspended after seven innings due to poor weather. The teams were tied 3-3 when the game was called.
- Among other top players in the League this week were: Juan Mujica of the DC Grays, who batted .407 and stole eight bases. Mujica leads the league in average and hits and is second in runs and triples. Kyle Breese of the McLean Raiders also had a good week, as he made two appearances and gained two victories. He struck out 17 batters in 11 innings and had a 1.64 ERA.
